OUR STORY

Willie Jewell's Old School Bar-B-Q was founded by Joe Adeeb and Josh Martino, CEO and President of Bono's Pit Bar-B-Q and Willie Jewell's. Willie Jewell's is the Fast Casual sister concept of Bono's Pit Bar-B-Q, a 69 year-old Southern Pit Bar-B-Q legend founded in 1949 in Jacksonville, Florida. Just like Bono's, Willie Jewell's smokes all of their BBQ the old-fashioned way, the low and slow method that has made Bono's a Jacksonville favorite since 1949 and now Willie Jewell's since 2009. Willie Jewell's dedication to quality and authenticity is exemplified by a promise of southern hospitality, decades old recipes and the fact that everything is smoked on site and cut to order. Smoked for hours, and served in minutes, Willie Jewell's promises the best Bar-B-Q experience you have ever had so come on in and let us show you what we're all about.

MEET WILLIE JEWELL

Willie Jewell Daniels was a 16-year-old girl with no home and no means. The Adeeb Family rescued Daniels from the streets of Jacksonville and offered her a job at their legendary Green Turtle Restaurant and later, Bono's Pit Bar-B-Q in Jacksonville, Florida. As she went to work in their family restaurants, she quickly proved that she could cook almost anything and commanded respect in the kitchen. They soon discovered an amazing lady who would change their lives forever. Not only was Willie Jewell an exceptional cook, but she had a sharp wit and an immeasurable heart. Adeeb attributes ninety-five percent of his cooking knowledge to Willie Jewell and says, "Not only was Willie Jewell an incredible cook, she was an incredible person." He cherishes the things that she taught him about cooking, but more importantly the things she taught him about life. Ms. Jewell passed some time ago, but her legend lives on through Willie Jewell's Old School Bar-B-Q.
